

How I came to understand what I'm doing as I entered my current interim.

A Webinar presented by The Rev. Dr. William Carl Thomas

How I came to understand what I'm doing as I entered my current interim is a ninety minute webinar that explores how an interim holds oneself accountable to the governing values / guiding principles that bring forth the healthy energy to help a congregation get ready for their next pastor. We will do this as we use the share screen setting on zoom to review how I deepen my understanding of these governing values / guiding principles through an evolving graphic expression. You will engage a practice that will help you deepen your understanding and integration of your own governing values / guiding principles.

I demonstrate my practice using the spiritual language of my life as priest of the Episcopal Church. You will take from this demonstration a method that allows you to insert your own spiritual language that expresses your own governing values / guiding principles.

The graphic that accompanies this webinar description is the most recent rendering of what holds me accountable. I will also use some of webinar time to demonstrate how Unsplash.com and Canva.com are where I find the tools to create the evolving graphic. You will find another demonstration of how I use the tools found therein to assist me in developing a sermon at my website WCTcoach.com.

The Rev. Dr. William Carl Thomas is a sort of retired Episcopal Priest who is serving as the Interim Rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Elizabeth City NC. Bill is a former member of the IMN Faculty. He offers 36 plus years of ordained experience in both settled and churches in transition. Explore his skills at Bill's website WCTcoach.com.